NATIONAL PARK : The heavily forested area which is on Dilek Peninsula, the extension of Samsun Mountains to the Aegean Sea, has been under protected as National Park in 1966. The National Park includes an area of 11000 hectares and it is on the borders of Kusadasi district and at the south of the centrum. Beside its interesting geological and geomorphological structure, it has a rare botanic guality for the Mediterranean. Because of this quality, it gained a scientific value from the researches made by the botanists. The national environment of the National Park has become a protection field also for the wild animals because there was not a road until recent years. There are endangered species in the area; the most typical example is the Anatolian Leopard. In the National Park, there are lots of reptiles, mammals and species of birds. Also at the shores of the field, almost all kinds of fish are unigue to the Mediterranean, have the chance of living and reproduction. The Mediterranean seal which is under protection, is one of the typical animals of the region. The beaches and picnic areas in the National Park area are very popular for the visitors between April and October. The park also provides tracking and climbing opportunities at the inner forest pathways for the nature lovers. Simple facilities like water, WC, dressing cabins, picnic area and tables and cookstoves have been developed in the Park, to make the daily excursions to Icmeler Bay, Aydinlik Bay and Kavakli Beach, easier. To prevent the damage of the natural structure, overnight accomodation resorts are not welcome.
